Remarks: Gail: Attached is a copy of Public Law 754, 81st Congress for your current study. The "Federal Records Act of 1950" starts on page 6. On page 9 are the Program requirements for "Heads of Agencies." Although CIA could seek exemption, the General Counsel recommended to the DCI that the Agency comply with the intent and requirements in so far as they do not conflict with the safety of Agency (over)

"Sources and Methods." I have never had a problem in meeting the Federal Records Program requirements and the protection of our sources and methods.

I have had some DDP protests that they should be free to do anything convenient to DDP and not be restrained by those records control standards recommended by National Archives, which I consider applicable in the Agency. No other Directorate finds the standards inconvenient. (I shall send you a rather bulky sampling of the several guide books we furnish Agency Records Managers.)

FOR YOUR INFORMATION AND RETURN PLEASE
As you requested, here are several booklets of Records Management standards and guidance the Agency Central Records Staff has furnished to Records Managers. Because our Program conforms to the Federal Program, our policy is to reduce duplication of effort and cost by using National Archives items where possible. It also eliminates the frustration of formal regulatory coordination on guide books, training manuals, and procedural instructions.

REMARKS: This machine intrigues me. This will hold a 200 ft. roll of uncut microfiche (with 90,000 pages -- or up to 180,000 pages). It also holds a 200 ft. reel of 16mm film with a couple thousand pages of update items. A code system permits quick retrieval of related items on both 105 & 16mm. I thought you and Tom would find it interesting too.
